Mashburn Takes College Station Post

San Marcos City Clerk Sherry Mashburn will become College Station's next city secretary in August.

Sherry Mashburn

The College Station City Council announced the hiring during its special meeting on Tuesday, July 13. Mashburn is scheduled to start her new job on August 16.

"Sherry has made many significant improvements to the services provided by the City Clerk's office during her tenure," said San Marcos Mayor Susan Narvaiz. "The City has received state recognition for vital statistics management and we have reached a higher level in many other areas. We appreciate her service here and wish her well in her new post."

Mashburn joined the City of San Marcos in 2008 and has been responsible for official records of City Council meetings, records management, board appointments, public notices, city elections, birth and death records and passports, and support services for the City Council.

"This was a difficult decision for me because I have grown to love the San Marcos community and the City of San Marcos employee family," Mashburn said. "It has been a privilege to work with such an outstanding City Council who dedicate so much of their time serving the citizens of San Marcos."

Mashburn's career in municipal government includes being city clerk in San Marcos (2008-present), city secretary in Bee Cave (1999-2008) and tax assessor-collector for the City of Katy (1987-1993).

"Sherry is extremely well respected by her peers in Texas and across the country," College Station Mayor Nancy Berry said. "It was obvious that we, as a council, had a chance to hire a professional who is considered a leader in her field. We're confident she'll fit in well with our staff."

Outgoing College Station City Secretary Connie Hooks announced in March that she would retire July 31 after serving the city for a total of 25 years.
